NORTH JUNIOR HIGH HAS VOLLEY BALL CHAMPIONS

The volley ball team of the North junior high school won the championship of the Ogden junior high schools yesterday by defeating the Lewis junior by a score of 30 to 13.

This game was the final one of a series played by the Central, Lewis and North junior schools and was played on the Lewis grounds.

While the Lewis team was a strong contestant for the volley ball honors yet at no time yesterday was the outcome doubtful, the North junior team maintaining the lead throughout the game.

This game gains the pennant for the North junior, taking it away from the Central junior, where it has been for two seasons.

The members of the North junior team are: Eva Carr, Josie Clapier, Carol Candland, Thea Knudson, Mary Telleson, Jean Bigelow, Amelia Spahn, Veda Stewart, Mabel Cowles, Maud Erickson and Annie Hancock.

Miss Helen Bennett of the Chicago bureau of occupations says that every woman should have a profession, as a money safeguard, for the sake of her self-development and to commercially justify her education.

BRIND STUDENT HAS A MOST PLEASING VOICE

The auditorium at the State School for the Deaf and Blind was crowded to its capacity last night for the annual recital of the music pupils of the school and a number of interested patrons and friends of the school stood in the adjoining room throughout the entertainment. They were well paid too for their attendance, as the excellent work of the performers despite the handicap of being sightless, was a lesson to all present of what may be accomplished through patient teaching and persistent practice.

Preceding the opening number, Professor Joseph Ballantyne, the instructor, explained the system of Braille music, which is used in teaching the blind. Six raised dots, he said, used in various position, somewhat in the form of clusters, as 1-3, 2-4-5, 3-4-5-6, etc., represent note values, key signatures, octave and chord positions and every sign and character used in music. As soon as the pupils begin the study of music, they are taught to read and, contrary to general belief, no dictation is given. They study out the parts for one hand at a time and then put the two together. As a feature of extra interest, to show with what facility the students can read, Lulu McDonald was called to the platform and read a number of bars from a piano selection that was entirely unfamiliar to her. In her reading, but little hesitancy was shown and the exhibition was much appreciated by all present.

The heaviest part of the program was taken by James Jacobs, who has been studying vocal music for about two years and it is not exaggeration to state that this young man will be a concert singer of considerable note if he continues to progress during his high school term at the school, as he has been doing the two years of preparatory work. He possesses a tenor voice of rarely pleasing quality and already shows promise of power. His interpretative instinct is also good and when he is able to control his high temperamental nature, his work will move any audience. His six numbers were well chosen to display different qualities of the range, quality and power of his voice and knowledge of interpretation and all were nicely rendered. The audience was particularly impressed, however, with his rendition of Millard's "Ave Maria," a big number in which he reached a natural with fine dramatic effect.

Miss Ida Foster, a two-year piano student, contributed four solos and assisted in a four hand number. Her touch was remarkably sure and all of her numbers were played with a skill that a student not handicapped by nature, might well envy. The two numbers "La Serenata" and "Good Night" were especially pleasing.

The other players, Miss Lulu McDonald, Miss Sarah Getz and Miss Linda Masoero also played in a highly commendable manner and their efforts were well received.

The complete program was as follows:
Piano (four hands) "Intermezzo" Miss Ida Foster and Miss Lulu McDonald.

(a) "Reverie" opus 25 Chas. Wakefield Cadman
(b) "In a Gondola" Heins

"NATIONAL HERO SERIES" NO. 2

GARIBALDI—ITALIA'S GREAT PATRIOT

IN the cause of Personal and National Liberty this modern Rienzi of sunny Italy would have gladly laid down his life. It inspired him to deeds of immortal grandeur, of superb valor and of boundless suffering. Garibaldi would not have legislative tyranny of any kind enter into his own private life any more than will our millions of liberty-loving Italian citizens. His flaming soul scorned any legislation which would prohibit ALL because ONE man out of thousands imbibes in gluttonous quantities. He knew that the light wines of Italy and the barley brews of Germany are beneficial to humanity.

Upon an old Germanic basis 57 years ago Anheuser-Busch, brewers of Budweiser, established their brand. The Constitution of the United States is the sole authority upon which they launched their business in America. Every day of these 57 years has been devoted to the brewing of an honest Barley-malt and Saazer Hop brew—the kind that means Moderation throughout the world. Seven thousand, five hundred people are daily required to keep pace with the public demand for Budweiser. Its sales exceed any other beer by millions of bottles.
